at CHS . . .

CHS has a guest this year, Pilar Gomez of Ecquador, she is seeing our school and its elements for the first time. Because of her we are all looking at our school in a new way—not just looking at it, but seeing it. We are coming to realize that day after day we benefit from the guidance and time which our counselors and administration so generously devote to us. The many activities which they assist us in planning give us a change of pace and a chance to meet the kind of people who become loyal friends. The well-rounded education the faculty strives to offer us naturally includes the wide selection of challenging sports. The varied organizations for every interest are all part of this.

We are looking at the outside of our school too. The Goldsborough Memorial Gymnasium, completed in 1961, adds an impressive touch to our already outstanding buildings and campus. Construction of the power mechanics building was completed in the summer of 1964. This permits the boys to work on their cars and learn of their workings.

Each day we realize more fully the numerous advantages our school offers us. These, you too, would notice, if you were a guest at CHS.

If You Were a Guest at

A guest at CHS need not wander aimlessly in the halls for long. The students, as well as the administration, are always willing to help visitors and new students learn the ways of Chesterton High School.

Superintendent Lyle Klitzke, working in conjunction with the School Board, oversees the activities of the whole township school system. Teachers and parents of students also have a co-operative P—TA.

Principal George Kriviskey and Assistant Principal Harold Hanes always have their doors open to answer any questions that may trouble a student.

Secretaries Mrs. McGroarty, Mrs. Greene, and Mrs. Wilding give their assistance to those seeking any type of information about CHS.

The Guidance office is kept in smooth working order by Mrs. Collins, secretory. Mr. Rodney Letner and Mr. John Mathias readily counsel students as to scheduling, planning after-groduotion careers, and solving any problems—academic or sociol. Mr. C. H. Hanson, who is also on the Guidance staff, is in charge of testing.

Junior High Principal Alfred Nelson conducts business from his office in Central School, and with secretories Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Davis, manages Junior High activities efficiently.

Dispensing pills and comforting words, Mrs. Isaacs, the school nurse, trovels to all Westchester Township schools to preserve good health throughout the school system.

Other necessary elements of school life include the orderly operation of the mechanical departments. Without the custodians, cooks, and bus drivers, CHS would be missing the systems that engineer the operations of a school for the enjoyment of guests and students alike.

Lyle K. Klitzke

Superintendent

Mr. Klitzke hos innumerable responsibilities os the head of our school corporation. He successfully fulfills these by heading the school board, seeing to it that we have teachers who are competent, exhibiting diplomacy in dealing with the community, and generally assuming other administrative functions.

Counselors Guide Students

Mr. Wright, Junior High Guidance Counselor, listens to a student's problem.

This year the Guidance functions at Chesterton High School have been greatly improved. The department has been made into a highly advanced and more specialized student service center. The services provided by the counselors exist to enlighten each student as to his full potential. Knowing this information, the student can better plan his course and choose the subjects that will be of the greatest advantage to him in preparing for college or a vocation. Literature on college requirements is passed out to every student, with additional information on specific colleges available in the Guidance Office.

Each student may be oided through several services in the guidance area. These include educational, vocational, and personal counseling, testing and interpretation, the individual inventory of a long term record, dispersion of educational and vocational material, follow-up of graduates and dropouts, as well as aid in educational and vocational areas.

Unlike last year's, this year's counseling staff is made up of fulltime counselors. Mr. Hanson has charge of testing and interpretation. Mr. Letner and Mr. Mathias converse with the students individually and guide them in the proper direction.

It is hoped that the guidance function will supplement classroom instruction and extra-curricular activities in helping to develop the well-rounded student.

The head counselor, R. Letner, or either of the other counselors, C. Hanson or J. Mathias, will gladly give guidance to any new student at CHS.

Secretaries Work Efficiently

The Senior High secretaries are Mrs. Genevieve Wilding and Mrs. Catherine McGroarty; Mrs. Sylvia Collins, the guidance secretary, looks on.

Mrs. Jaon Potterson, Mrs. Potricia Davis are the Junior High secretories.

Mrs. Beulah Reily, Mrs. Mortha Bucksbarg ore secretories for the administration section.

If You Were a Guest at

If a guest at CHS would stay for more than a day he would find the after hours activities the most exciting of any at the school. After school events are often preceded with great excitement.

This year's activities' highlights include Hamecoming, the first in a series of events that marks the start of the social year at CHS.

Homecaming is launched with the annual parade where organizations, classes, and, this year, members of the community submit floats to be judged by an executive committee. Following the parade school spirit rises as students cheer the Trojans in the Homecoming game during which the queen is annuanced. After the game a Homecoming atmosphere surrounds the couples as they end the exciting evening and go to the Homecoming Dance, held in the Multi-purpose Room.

The crisp, cold aura of the an-coming winter surrounds the Fall Fiesto this year. This semi-formal dance is spansored by the Senior class.

Winter sets in full blast and the Christmas spirit envelopes the students as they take time out from studying to attend the Christmas Dance.

Red and white is the theme as Cupid takes the floor for the February Valentine's Dance sponsored by the band.

Spring is just around the corner, school is nearing its end, spirits are light and carefree, and the event of the year—the Prom—is just as gorgeous as ever.

Beauty as Theme of '64 Prom

Cauples admire the Tahitian hut.

"Tahitian Twilight" brought great enchantment to CHS as the theme of the 1964 Juniar-Seniar Prom. The Juniors hosted prom-gaers in typical island foshion.

Crossing the bridge into the island scene students were greeted with leis presented to them by girls dressed in native costumes.

Elegant evening gowns were admired as the couples stralled leisurely across the room gazing at the exatic scenery. A grass hut was the center of attraction as it provided a gay tropical air to the scene. The Reynold Young Band was ingeniously situated in an autrigger canoe as it played soft tunes far the dancers. This South Pacific setting surrounded the couples as they praceeded with the Grand March.

The excitement and suspense rose as the time drew near to announce the queen and her court. The queen, Lynn Hokanson, and princess, Linda Dalton, were presented with bouquets of roses and reigned supreme with King Warren McCorkel and Prince Neal Krieps for the remainder of the evening.

As the clock struck twelve a beautiful spring moon accompanied the couples as they drifted into the multi-purpose room for the prom breakfast. After the breakfast the students wandered home with pleasant memories of the over-all splendor of the evening.

Cheryl Johnson crowns the 1964 Homecoming queen.

Chesterton High School's 1964 Homecoming followed tradition with the parade, football game, and dance on Friday, October 16.

The parade started off the Homecoming activities as the band led the procession through downtown Porter and Chesterton while judges rated the floats along the route. The parade ended at CHS where the Homecoming game was played that evening.

While the estatic fans awaited the half-time ceremonies, the Trojan football team worked for their victory over the Portage Indians.

During half-time ceremonies the winning floats were announced. FHA placed first in the school clubs Division for the fourth consecutive year. The Freshman float received first place in the high school class Division. The Methodist Youth Fellowship won first for the community organizations and merchants.

Also at half-time the 1964 Homecoming queen, Linda Dalton, was crowned by last year's queen, Cheryl Johnson. Linda's court included Birdie Carmody, Candy Cooper, and Cissie Turgi, Seniors; Lana Darraugh, and Sheryl Neuschwanger, Juniors.

With music by the Dale Miller band the Homecoming dance concluded the '964 Homecoming activities.

Queen Linda Dalton is escorted off the field by Tom Joyce.

If You Were a Guest at

A guest at CHS would find the hundreds of foces walking along in the crowded halls and listening intently in the classes slightly frightening because there are so many.

Yet if a guest would take the unfamiliar faces, not as strangers, but as individuals he would find these students wishing to achieve academic success during their years at CHS.

From Freshmen to Seniors a guest will find that the student's life is highlighted by different events. The thought of entering high school is just as exalting for the Freshmen as the thought of graduation is to the Seniors.

These students take their school life fairly seriously, although for most, a social event is looked forward to more than a test.

As a guest becomes more ocquainted with the students as individuals he will find their particular tastes different in different subjects. Yet every student, whether he is an individual standing alone or part of a group, holds his own opinion of the school. Whether it be good or bad, influenced or a product of self-thought the student's school years depend on his opinion of the school system as a whole.

Through contact with the world presented to them in their school, the students build for themselves a better life during their high school years.

CHS . . . Friends

Seniors

As leaders of the 1964-65 school year, Seniors organized themselves in preparation for their last year at CHS.

Even before the school year began, Seniors storted class activities by sponsoring a car wash and pop bottle drive. The proceeds from these projects went to buying supplies for the Senior girls to paint Troy Field's bleachers.

When classes started in September, Seniors elected class officers to organize their business and activities. Loren Long was elected president with Linda Dolton serving under him as vice-president. Candy Cooper and Birdie Carmody kept the Senior class statistics in order as secretary and treasurer.

With three years of experience to back them up, Seniors built their fourth float for the CHS homecoming. The theme "We're Expecting a Victory" was reproduced as a huge stork bringing home the victory.

Working in cooperation with the class representatives, the officers directed meetings at which the committee chose announcements, and caps and gowns in preparation for graduation. The class flower, a red rose, class colors, red and white, and class motto were voted upon by the whole class.

While anticipating the possibility of a Seniar class trip, Seniors sponsored various fund-raising activities. Some of these were a pop bottle drive and a sweat-shirt sale.

Seniors will always remember and be remembered for their traditional senior parties. While remembering that graduation will be the last time the class can be together, Seniors strengthen their friendships by being together at class parties.

Preparing for their first year at college, many Seniors took speed-reading and other courses needed for college entrance. Other students followed through with business or general courses.

Even through all the preparation for future life, Seniors can hardly forget their four years at CHS. They especially remember the new additions to CHS life. The Goldsborough Memorial Building, the football, wrestling, swimming, and golf teams were all merged to become part of CHS.

Not a first at CHS, but a third, Pilar Rodriguez, exchange student from Equador, brought to CHS Seniors the feeling of haw far-reaching their future lives would be.

Being 197 strong, the class of '65 will leave CHS with fine impressions of America's youth and take with them a happiness that will be recalled as long as Chesterton High School remains a part of them.

Pilar Brings Ecuador to CHS

Pilor laoks on at a Spanish Club meeting.

How does a guest coming to CHS feel about her new school? Does she consider the students friendly and easy to get along with? Is she satisfied with the curriculum affered and the academic level? Let's ask the fareign exchange student. If onyone would know, she would.

Pilar Rodriguez de Gomez came to CHS from her home in Ecuador, South America. There she lived happily with her mother and fother and her two older brothers. Coming to CHS was indeed a wonderful experience for her. She learned much about the United Stotes—the language, the government, and the customs.

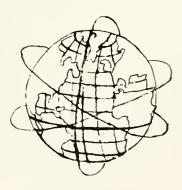

Here in the U.S. Pilar's family is the Carlton Schraders. Nancy Schrader and her friends have helped Pilar to make new friends and learn the language. When she arrived she did not know a word of English, but now does very well.

Pilor, being a bright girl, takes the stiff courses of Trigonometry, Chemistry, Civics, and English, and does well in all her subjects. Not being used to the language, Pilar must work twice as hord to understand a teacher's lectures than the other students.

All in all, a guest coming to CHS was happy with her new friends and with the existing world of new things.

Pilar studies ald bones in Zoology closs.

Adjusting to a new woy of life is easy for Pilar with her American family, the Schraders.

Dedication . . .

to a CHS Personality . . . Mr. Ray Banary

A skilled teacher

Mr. Ray Banary is one such person. Known as "Coach" to the football team and "Teacher" to his biology students, Mr. Banary, at one time or another, has the opportunity to influence nearly every CHS student.

Besides meeting students in his classes, Mr. Banary organizes and sponsors the Basketball Intramurals each year. He also gives his time to sponsor intramural activities at noon and on Saturdays.

As a friend to all and a memorable personality, this book is dedicated to Mr. Ray Banary.

Dear Miss Satterlee:

First may I congratulate you on having five really beautiful girls in your senior class.

It was somewhat of a problem to choose just one girl from the five, but after careful consideration, I have picked Mary Williams.

I chose her because she portrays the All American girl type which is fast fading from the scene. Her expression conveys warmth, intellignece and wholesomeness.

I feel sorry that I could not have picked all 5 but as in every contest there must be a winner and a loser.

My congratulations to the winner and best wishes to those who did not win.

Juniors

Juniar Class Officers are: Bab Schmidt, treasurer; Bannie Darling, vice-president; Elsie Fergusan, president; and Jackie Isaacsan, secretary.

The Junior class energetically looks forward to the year of excitement and responsibility. The class' fine leader uses foresight as she gets the ball rolling with money-making activities. During the summer the hard-working juniors held two car washes and a bake sale. These summer projects put the class ahead with $500 to begin the year.

Immediately after the election of officers, plans for Homecoming were begun. The theme "Attack-Em" was chosen for the Juniar Class Float. Students worked diligently every evening after school until the arrival of the big day when the final touches were added.

Getting on to new business, committees for the Fish Fry and Magazine Drive were chosen and plans were gotten underway. Both projects being successful, the Juniors had a total of $1600 in the treasury before December.

After Christmas vacation Prom committee members were anxiaus to get busy on the plans. A band was chosen and themes were voted upon by the entire class. The Junior class then had months of work ahead to keep them busy. Class afficers felt confident that plans would run smoothly because of the ample funds available, due to the foresight of the class leaders.

To view the academic side of Junior life one might see some odd-looking, bundled characters trudging across Chesterton's "Artic Region" to the beloved Lion's Hut for U.S. History classes. Many Juniors learn excellent lab technique in Chemistry. Most Juniors attempt to advance their logic and reasoning in a year of Algebra II, while junior English classes help to enrich the lives of all Juniors as they gain a better understanding of American literature. All in all, no Junior need be idle for long, because there are a variety of organizations plus the academic aspect to keep them busy.

Sophomores

Sophamore officers: June Alton, vice-president; Lauren Codd, secretary; Jamie Rickard, treasurer; Wally Poling, president.

As most Sophomores enter their second year of high school, they leave behind their first-year anxieties and experiences and gain the feeling of beginning to belong to the "old gang of kids" who make CHS their headquarters. This feeling quickly spreads throughout the class members to unify their class os they look forward to being upperclassmen in just ane more year.

Welcoming Freshmen to CHS is only one of the mony tasks the Sophomores undertake in order to help the Freshmen get acquainted with a new school life.

Electing class officers was the first order of official business on the schedule of activities for the Sophomore class. To lead them for their second high school year, Sophomores chose Wally Poling as their president. As vice-president, June Alton worked closely with the president to keep the class business in order. Secretory Lauren Codd took notes on Sophomore activities, while Jamie Rickard kept the finances stroight as class treasurer.

Homecoming brought more excitement for the Sophomore class as they turned to the annual job of building their class float. The theme "Beat 'Em" was carried out with a live Trojan football player beating a huge, stuffed drum.

On the academic side of tenth grade life, Sophomores struggled and progressed through usual courses of Geometry, Driver Training, Health and Sofety, and second year language courses. These classes helped Sophomores to prepare themselves for more challenging projects in their remaining two years at CHS.

Moking their mark in sports, Sophs composed most of the Junior Varsity teams and also had class members on the Varsity teams. The Junior Varsity cheering squad includes all Sophomores who work with the Varsity cheerleaders to fire-up the Boosters.

While always anticipating their next year as upperclassmen, Sophomores worked to make their year fun-filled and worthwhile. Aaron, Patricio Alton, June Ameling, Theodore Andershock, Thomos Anderson, David Anderson, Gail

Dancing in the balcany at noon is a favorite pasttime of Sherry Sutley and Lauren Coad.

Sophs During Typical Day

Saphamares proceed to lunch at noon.

Having overcome the new thrill and excitement of high school life, the Sophomores of Chesterton High School rush busily on to bigger and better things.

They enthusiastically worked together on their Homecoming float in the companionship of their friends and classmates.

During the noon hour, the Sophomore girls eat lunch at their toble in the cafeteria and discuss topics of daily importance. In the study hall, one might see a group of two or three studying for a Health and Sofety test or a World History test. But most sophs take a break from the daily grind and go to the gym to relax, talk, and dance.

The CHS Sophomores enjoy parties, and sock-hops wouldn't be the same without the presence of their fun-loving energy.

A guest coming to CHS would certainly view sophs occupied with vorious activities in various places.

Morty Brennon and Bob Lindsay have a drink between classes.

Freshmen learn the internal structure af the warm in Mr. Banary's bialogy class.

Chesterton Freshmen received a new and exciting experience when they entered high school this year. They plunged head on into the vigorous life all Chesterton high students must face. Numerous social activities, Freshmen faatball and other sports, the taking on of new, more complicated academic subjects such as Biology and Algebra are just part of the active high school life which challenges the Freshmen.

The Freshman class officers, elected at the beginning of the year, led the class this year with the spirit and undying loyalty which characterizes a good CHS student. Fallowing their example the rest of the class can establish themselves as typical Chesterton high students.

Don Somanas was elected to lead the class this year as the President, while Susan Jankawski backed him up in the Vice-President's office. Joy Waugh, as Secretary, kept the minutes at each meeting and handled any other correspondence that the class had. Dave Demoratski undertook the task of collecting dues and keeping the money in order in his position as Treasurer.

The Freshman's life is the hardest of all because they are the underdags. They must prave themselves in their Freshman year; prave that they are able high schaal students ready to carry out the responsibilities of a full fledged CHS student.

Junior High

The officers of the Junior High Executive Council are: Jill Williams, Treas.; David Wallmon, Sec.; Sue Patterson, Pres.; Bruce McLeon, Vice-Pres.; and Mrs. Oesting, sponsor.

Entering Junior High is a step into a new life for each seventh grader. They enter a different world with more studies and extra-curricular activities—all of which provide a preview of high school life.

Dances, pep sessions, games, and final exams present the picture of the next six years to a Jr. High student. They also have the new experience of electing representatives for the Student Council to organize their activities for each school year. The class officers and student council work together and gain experience in running the business of their classes.

As more of a preparation for high school, seventh and eighth graders have the chance to participate in sports such as football, basketball, and track. To interest the students in sports and to teach them the fundamental skills, physical education classes are required for all Jr. High pupils.

Since the teams need the backing of the students, cheerleaders are chosen to cheer at athletic events.

Learning manual skills for help in their future lives, Jr. High pupils take Home Ec. and Industrial Arts courses. In Home Ec. the girls learn the arts of sewing and cooking while the boys learn woodworking and building in shop class. Band and charus give students the opportunity to bring out their musical talents. Jr. High band concerts and the annual Homeroom Sing let the participants in an the experience of performing before an oudience and in competition. Art classes provide similar experiences to students when they exhibit their work at art shows.

With their small introduction to high school life, Jr. High students can anticipate more excitement, learning, and fun in the years yet to come.

If You Were a Guest at

Perhaps a guest coming to CHS for the first time would feel overwhelmed, perplexed, or very satisfied with the school's high ocademic standards. But whatever the feelings his first impression might have been, the ending results would be a feeling of achievement and satisfaction.

Besides having numerous classes throughout the day, teachers have certain other duties to perform. They sponsor clubs or classes and different activities. A good teacher is a student's best friend, because he cares about the welfare and happiness of the student. Teachers spend many hours burning the midnight oil to grade the students' tests and popers.

The Teachers also have to worry about make-up work. For instance, if a student has no free period, the teacher moy have to use valuable time after school hours for that student to make up a test. A teacher is happy to devote his time and effort to help a student who is slower or who gets behind. A teacher is happy and satisfied if he can help one student a day to better himself.

Other duties of teachers include taking noon duty when they would rather be eating a nice hot lunch, or taking over a study hall when they would rather be relaxing in the teacher's lounge.

Teachers also have to ride noisy fan buses which most likely give them headaches. They have to spansor activities such as sock-haps.

But besides these many noble deeds a teacher must also give advice and help to any student in trouble who asks for assistance. Sometimes a teacher must take on the big responsibility of many students on a field trip. A teacher doesn't really mind very much because he is a friend and a devoted worker.

Business Department Trains Tycoons

Miss Bawman dictates a business letter to her students in shart-

"Dear Sir: In answer to your letter of July 13 ..."
"Hey! That mimeograph's not a motor. Put it back together." These and similar cries of instruction and distress can be heard from the widespread rooms that constitute business classes.

From shorthand to office practice, students at CHS have the opportunity to gain practical experience as well os information from formal clossroom instruction. Typing, sharthand and office practice all seem to fall into a category for students who plan to be secretaries, although these caurses would be helpful, tao, for any purpose. Business law, bookkeeping, and general business provide instruction for those who may be interested in a more executive position. These various courses just in the Business department show the versatility of CHS in providing for the needs of every student.

Mr. Stealy watches as a student types a job.

The Business caurses are not limited to students plonning a career in this field at all. The courses can be useful to anyone in working out his finances for college or plonning a budget for his family in future years.

Beginners Taught Correct Methods

Mr. Koselke canducts pupils in classraam learning.

The Driver's Education department at Chesterton High School is divided into two main parts. One is classroom instruction, and the other is active driving demonstration in an automobile. To be eligible for this course, the applicant must be at least fifteen years of age.

In classroom instruction students are taught the "rules of the road," the parts of the engine and what they do. The proper attitudes necessary for a person to become a good, capable driver, and what to do in case of an accident, are also brought out.

In the other part of the course, driving demonstration, students acquaint themselves with the automobile, and after some practice, they learn to manipulate it skillfully. They are told certain safety measures and "tips" on parallel parking.

Teachers Mr. Norman Koselke and Mr. Robert Fuller feel that there are many advantages open to the student who take Driver's Educaton. For example, the insurance rates will be lower; he will be a more experienced driver, and he will be more confident in his driving.

Driver training students get real driving experience.

Home Economics Prepares Both Girls

Alma Bamesberger Indiana University, 8.S. FHA

One of the more exciting courses in the school is home economics. In this class the students have material goals to achieve. They do not go into a class and sit at a desk far an hour, instead they work with their hands and mind on several things from sewing to child core.

The Home Economics course is based on the need for education for personal and family living. Home management, foods and nutrition, home nursing, housing, interior decorating, child care, and dress design are some of the courses offered. The home economics faculty feels that these courses will be useful to future homemokers.

A well equipped kitchen is a great aid to the students taking food and nutrition as one of their courses. Their aim is not to become gourmets, but to learn just the fundamental processes of cooking.

A sewing course is a boon to any future homemaker, and the mony creative things the sewing students do are as rewarding as a finished picture is to on art student.

Through many special projects and activities the students taking the home economics course learn how to cope with the problems which will develop in their futures as homemakers.

Special Education

Mr. Drubert and Mr. Collins head Special Education Department.

Chesterton High School's Special Education Department is an example of how well CHS is equipped to provide education for every type of pupil. The Special Education Department gives every pupil an equal opportunity to learn at his own level of obility.

Students having special health problems can easily be accommodated by the excellent facilities available in this department. The physically handicapped, for example, are aided by homebound and schoolhome phone instruction for students of Junior and Senior High School age.

For pupils who are emotionally and socially maladjusted, psychological testing is available. With the results of these tests, programs of study are set up for each individual pupil according to his own needs.

Special classes for mentally retarded pupils, who are educable and trainable, are also offered as an important phase of this program.

Speech, hearing, or visual handicaps are aided and improved through well planned corrective methods. One of these methods is the class which is offered in speech correction and lip reading. Tests are also given to detect hearing and visual difficulties so that aid may be given to correct these conditions.

The Guidance Department at CHS follows the goal of every school by accommodating every pupil with public education.

If You Were a Guest at

Hoppy, but tired faces, reflect the spirit and deter mination of CHS athletes to students and guests alike. Whether showing the feelings of a victory or a disappointing defeat, CHS sportsmen can always prove to both visitars and spectators that their layalty to the team and the school brings forth their hardest efforts. From football in the fall to track in the spring and baseball in the summer, CHS students are always busy with athletic activities whether playing ar cheering. In the fall, football and cross-country kick aff the year of sparts. Football, especially with Hamecaming activities, shows to a visitar the normal sparts life at CHS.

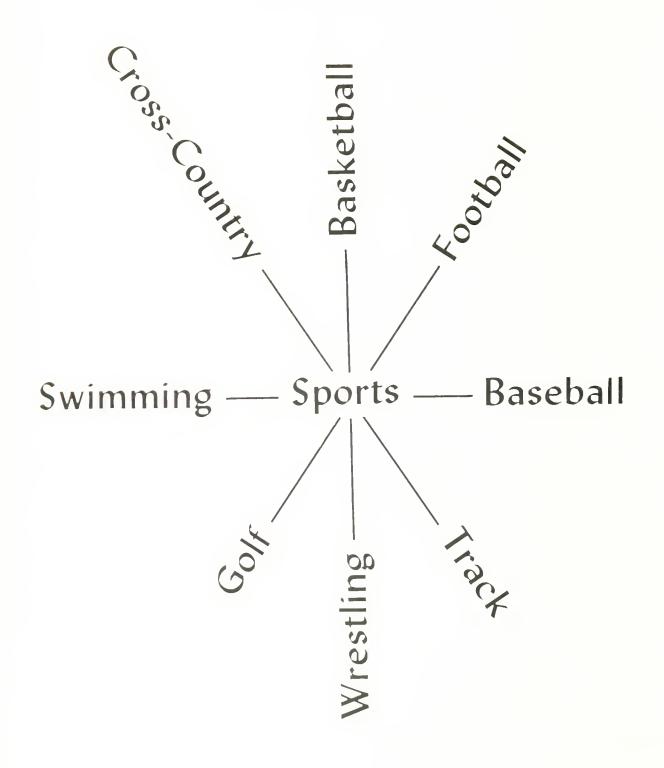

With wrestling, swimming, and basketboll, boys of every talent get to participate in athletic events. The Halidoy taurney and Sectionals usually bring the highlights of winter sparts.

Spring brings baseboll and track and also moves the players and spectators back outdoors far more fresh air sports.

When summer cames, and school is dismissed the CHS summer baseball team is arganized. The team plays throughout the summer and keeps the ball rolling until fall when the sports cycle starts over again.

It doesn't seem that a guest at CHS would need to warry about not seeing his fovorite spart performed at Chesterton High School.

CHS Batmen Fly Low

Spring means baseball to many sports fans and the 1964 baseball team brought excitement for fans and players alike.

The Trojon eleven won their first game with St. Mory's by a score of 5 to 1. Then later in the season they swept over Griffith, Gary Wirt, and Gary Edison for three conference victories.

One of the highlights of the Trojan season came in tournament play against their chief rival, Valparaiso, when CHS avenged an earlier 8 to 7 setbock with a 10 to 2 victory over the Vikings.

Greg Mitchell led the Trojans in batting averages with a .382 conference mark and .364 for all the games.

Warren McCorkel and Greg Mitchell shared the Most Valuable Player award this year.

Jim McGee fights for an escape.

If You Were a Guest at

Parlez-vaus Francais? Cheers Far Cheese! Latina est nan mortua. Papcarn! Get your popcarn here! All the warld is a stage and we are the players. These and similar cries can be heard around CHS at various intermittent times during a normal school week.

What would a visitar at Chestertan High School think? Perhaps he would be swept up in the stream of activities and soon realize that the spirit of participation runs high at CHS.

Na matter haw varied ane's interests may be, there is sure to be at least one arganization to fill the bill. For those who desire to be creative in numerous ways, Art and Drama Clubs apen fields for expression. The language clubs provide a taste of foreign culture to be sampled by the members. FHA, Library Club, Projectors and PA bays, which are mainly service clubs, affer students the apportunity to work in the area they chaose which may perhaps help them in their future lives.

The arganizational activities are as varied as the clubs themselves. The members do everything fram warking frantically an Hamecaming to breaking a piñata at Christmas and having an annual carn roast.

So it seems that a visitar fram near ar far would have no trouble feeling at home with the wide variety of arganizations at CHS.

CHS . . . Organizations

Student Council members work on committees to complete their projects.

Student Council officers are Nancy Oddi, treasurer; Bob Bloom, president; Mr. Jewell and Mr. Herber, sponsors; Dottie Robertson, vice-president; and Jeri Rucker, secretary.

Student Council Works to

This page Spansored by: BETTE PRANGE CASUALS 132 S. Calumet Road This year the function of the Chesterton High School Student Council has been changed from a social organization to more of a governing body. The Student Council is a non-profit making organization. It has undertaken such projects as "Spring Spruce-up" Week, the dress code, and control of the regulations for the Homecoming floats and parade. Any activity that requires supervision or regulation can depend upon the Student Council to step in and accept the responsibility.

The officers elected in Spring, 1964, are Bob Bloom, president; Dotty Robertson, vice-president; Jeri Rucker, secretary; Nanci Oddi, treasurer. Also, five representatives from each class are elected to the council. The Booster Club president and the presidents of each class are outomatically included as members. Although these people compose the membership of the Student Council, any interested students are welcome to attend the meetings and voice their opinions.

The Student Council con also be considered from the educational aspect. The students profit from this organization because it gives them a taste of self-government and porliamentary procedure. It helps them to better understand our national government while teaching them that there is always a reason behind every rule or law.

Bob Bloom, president, presides over all meetings of the CHS Student Cauncil.

Booster Club afficers are Mr. Mathias, spansar; Nancy Reiter, vicepresident; Ralph Ayres, treasurer; Barb Karner, president; Mrs. Satterlee, Miss Schuster, sponsars.

Collegiote seals, white blauses and shirts, maroon and gold pom poms, the sign contest, and the Trojan harse . . . all these things spell Booster Club to the average CHS Booster.

In co-operation with the cheerleaders, Booster Club arganizes much of the extra-curricular activities that have to do with backing the teams.

Besides organizing the cheering sections for games, this year Booster Club also sponsored the Homecoming Dance and Christmas Donce. Selling programs at the home games and sponsoring sock-hops also brought money into the Booster Club treasury.

The activities this year were directed by Barb Karner, President; Nancy Reiter, Vice-president; Lana Darragh, Secretary; and Ralph Ayres, Treasurer. Representatives this year were Candy Cooper, Senior; Cindy Kelly, Juniar; Angie Candeni, Sophomore; and Darla DeGraff, Freshman. Mrs. Martha Satterlee, Miss Joan Schuster and Mr. John Mathias were Booster Club spansors.

The National Hanor Society officers are: Mr. Hanes, sponsor; Carl McCune, vice-president; Nancy Reiter, Secretary; and Miss Schuster, Sponsor.

Character, scholarship, leadership, and service—these four words are found on the National Honor Society emblem depicting the standards by which a student is measured for membership.

The CHS chapter of National Honor Society fulfilled its pravision of service by sponsoring a tutoring service for the second year. Any high school student wha requests tutoring service in one of his subjects will be accommodated by the members who volunteered their services.

Saphomores, who were admitted to the Society for the first time last year, were allowed to join moinly to assist with the tutoring service.

Upholding the quality of leadership, Bill Mabin served as the president for the 1964-65 school year. Car! McCune was vice-president, while Noncy Reiter, secretary, kept the NHS records.

Miss Joan Schuster and Mr. Harold Hanes are the NHS sponsors.

This year CHS hopes to ochieve four main objectives in the German closses—writing, reading, speaking, and listening to German language. The German Club helps supplement these objectives, while it also provides fun and enjoyment for its members.

Senior Bob Goodwin has token over the duties of president this year, with John Gland, also a senior serving as vice-president. Junior Elsie Ferguson tokes notes as the club's secretary. Senior Wondo Hodge has been honored with the office of treasurer. The positions of social planners were given to Junior Jackie Isaacson and Sophomore Pot Cooney. The German Club's sponsor is Mrs. Nienke.

The meetings are held once a month in the evenings at one of the club member's homes. During two hours the officers hold a short business meeting, and then the social planners get games and activities underway. To participate in the games the members usually need to have some knowledge of the German language. The evenings are finally finished with the awaited refreshments—perhaps pap, potato chips, cookies, or pretzels.

Serving the needs of CHS students and teachers bring pleasures and problems to the Library Club. The eighteen members are faced with questions every day which cannot always be solved by looking in a book.

While the club tries to increose student interest and participation in library work, they are striving to attract qualified student assistants to sustain their efficiently run library.

Each spring Library Club members attend a meeting of the Northern Indiana Hoosier Student Library Association which is designed to help student Librarians with their work and to arouse interest in librarianship as a profession.

Elected to lead the librarians in their tenth year was Carmen Chellberg, president, and Jim Nicholson, vice-president. Collyn Summers, secretary, and Mitch Dresbough, treasurer, kept the books in order while Mr. Brunner, sponsor, directed the student librarians in their work.

The Library Club officers are: Cormen Chellberg, president; Mr. Brunner, sponsor; Jim Nicholson, vice-president; Callyn Summers, secretary.

GAA Combines Physical Fitness, Fun

Kathy Sims gets ready to receive the ball in a "powder-puff" football game.

Fall, winter or spring—GAA girls are always working for their club, for themselves, far physical fitness and for fun to strengthen their organization.

Every year GAA sponsars a girls' basketball tournament followed by a sock hop for their main moneymaking activity. The farmal mother and doughter banquet each spring, where awards are presented to girls who have earned them, is always the highlight of the GAA year.

While working for a successful club year, the GAA members spend an hour each week participating in after-school sports. Some of the activities offered are softball and field hockey in the fall, ice skating in winter, and swimming and tennis in spring.

GAA camps, clinics, and playdays also offer members the opportunity to campete with girls from nearby schools in various seasonal sports.

Through willing co-operation from the members, GAA fulfills its purpose of teaching new skills and stressing good sportsmanship in all they do.

Debbie Weymier and Sharon Brocksmith choose sides for a game of field hockey.

Relay races are a popular activity of GAA members.

Body of Events

Among Chesterton's school publications is the school newspaper, the SCOOP. The SCOOP, which has an All-American rating, is published once a week. It is a member of the National Scholastic Press Association and the Indiano High School Press Association.

The SCOOP stoff warks efficiently under the leadership of the Editor-in-Chief, Sheilah Rye and the Monaging Editor, Mary Lynn Cook. Mrs. Morgan, this year's SCOOP sponsor, is always available to give the staff advice or suggestions.

Neal Krieps, Business Manager, keeps SCOOP's records and orders supplies. Also working with the Business Department is the Advertising Department headed by Linda Olson. Circulation Manager, Koty Wagner, is in charge of selling SCOOP subscriptions and circulating printed SCOOPS.

Sports Editor, Bob Hess, works with his staff to include all athletic octivities of CHS.

Feature Editor, Carole Skibbie, and Jeri Rucker, Exchange Editor, add an interesting bit of variety to SCOOP with their feature stories and exchange column including news from other schaols.

When all stories have been turned in, the typists get busy and turn out another issue of SCOOP.

June Altan, Linda Olsan, and Becky Zehner draw ads far SCOOP.

The first edition of SCOOP is a success.

Future Teachers Learn First Hand.

The Future Teachers of America is a new arganization this year. It is designed to educate the students who are interested in teaching as a profession, to the advantages and disadvontages of being a teacher.

This new club, spansored by Miss Haas and Mrs. Evert, is led by Linda Doltan as president, Pam Bedenkap as vice-president, Koren France as secretary-treasurer, and Jerilyn Rucker as reporter.

Their first few meetings were held mainly to arganize the club and its constitution. The meetings are held after school on the second Tuesday of every month. At one of the meetings, President Linda Dalton related to the other FTA members her experiences as a first grade codet teacher.

The three phases of the cadet teaching program are 1) arientation, 2) abservation, and 3) participation.
